ACHMM and RABQSA Announce Agreement

Bethesda, MD and Milwaukee, WI, USA; the Academy of Certified Hazardous Materials Managers, Inc. (ACHMM) and RABQSA International, Inc. (RABQSA) today announce the signing of a Letter of Agreement that brings the organizations' expertise together for personnel certification, membership and professional development.

RABQSA EMS and OHS certified auditors will now have the opportunity to receive ACHMM membership benefits at a reduced rate. ACHMM certified members who meet specific requirements are also eligible for reduced fees for RABQSA EMS and OHS management systems auditor certification.

Additionally, ACHMM certified members who apply for RABQSA certification will be recognized as meeting part of the qualification-based requirements in EMS and OHS certification schemes.

"This agreement is important to ACHMM because it effectively positions the organization to continue meeting the changing educational, training and professional development needs of our growing membership base and those professionals who will join in the future as ACHMM continues to expand globally," says ACHMM Executive Director A. Cedric Calhoun, CAE. "It is an important new knowledge-sharing exchange that will benefit ACHMM's robust membership, which was the primary objective for us when we entered these discussions with RABQSA."

"We are excited about the benefits and added value this partnership will bring to our certified auditors as well as the ACHMM certified members," stated Michael K. Carmody, RABQSA President and CEO. "ACHMM and RABQSA recognize the importance of contributing to the improvement of national and international trade, industry and the performance of both organizations. This agreement demonstrates that both organizations are working together towards ensuring such improvement is achieved."
