

RABQSA launches the Australian Pork Industry's Moisture Infused Pork (MIP) Competency-based Food Safety Auditor Scope

Sydney, Australia: RABQSA International, Inc (RABQSA) is officially launching the Australian Pork Industry's, Moisture Infused Pork (MIP) Food Safety Auditor Scope, developed in liaison with industry and Australian Pork Limited (APL).

APL CEO Andrew Spencer said "Australian Pork Limited is leading the way in using the RABQSA Competency-based Food Safety Auditor Certification Scheme (CBFSA) for our Moisture Infused Pork Scope of certification. This program assures food safety and product safety and quality by encompassing all manufacturing and storage aspects of moisture infused (MI) pork production."

Mr Spencer went on to say "The MIP scope has been added to the CBFSA scheme to provide confidence to industry that RABQSA certified auditors, working with the MIP Standards, have the appropriate competencies, ensuring the requirements are being achieved. The final result is a certified pork product of high quality and safety delivered to the consumer".

QAF Meat Industries, a large Australian pork producer and processor are pleased to be associated with the RABQSA MIP certification program. Quality Assurance Manager, John Koschel, said "This program provides a high level of customer satisfaction and confidence in the product safety and integrity through all stages of production to the final customer. A true "paddock to plate" program."

Vice President and Executive Director Asia Pacific RABQSA, Peter Holtmann, stressed that the MIP scope is another example of industry working together to offer a certified and professional focus on adding value to industry and raising the bar for Australian MI pork products here and abroad.
