

RABQSA launches the Professional Trainers (PT) Certification Scheme

Milwaukee, Seoul and Sydney: RABQSA International, Inc (RABQSA) is officially launching the Professional Trainers (PT) Certification Scheme.

The Professional Trainers (PT) Certification Scheme has been developed by RABQSA International, Inc. (RABQSA) to provide international recognition for Professional Trainers to conduct adult training and assessments, using national and international standards recognized by RABQSA.

The PT Certification Scheme is designed to ensure that Professional Trainers are assessed as competent to perform adult training and assessment in accordance with requirements of ISO/IEC 17024, the international standard for personnel certification.

“The scheme is yet another example of where RABQSA is filling a need to offer an international certification for a professional sector that is largely localized and not portable. The concept of holding an international certification allows multinational training bodies to standardize their approach to recruitment and staff career advancement. To the professional trainer it offers the chance to work in multiple locations, countries and industries whilst demonstrating clearly defined competencies.”
RABQSA Acting President and CEO, Peter Holtmann, commented.

Further details on the Professional Trainers Certification Scheme are available on the RABQSA website at www.rabqsa.com or by contacting the RABQSA Competency-based PT Scheme Examiner, at info@rabqsa.com
